
1,000 EV charging stations online across Southern Europe for Atlante Milestone marked by an exclusive summer promotion for EV drivers

Milan, 22 July 2025 – Atlante, a leading fast and ultra-fast charging network for electric vehicles (EVs) in Southern Europe and proud member of the Spark Alliance, announces a major milestone: 1,000 EV charging stations are now online across Italy, France, Spain, and Portugal.

This achievement underscores Atlante's rapid growth and its commitment to delivering a premium, high-performance charging network that meets the evolving needs of EV drivers. With over 3,500 charging points strategically distributed across the region, Atlante is enabling seamless, cross-border electric travel backed by cutting-edge technology and 100% renewable energy.

Since the inauguration of its first station in Piedmont in October 2021, Atlante has not stopped taking electric mobility to the next level, supporting the transition to clean energy and using cutting-edge technology. Each station in the Atlante network is designed to offer the most suitable and advanced charging solutions for its location, whether in city centers, retail hubs, highways, or residential areas. The company focuses on fast and ultra-fast charging, and wherever possible, integrates energy storage systems and solar panels to ensure both performance and sustainability.

"Reaching 1,000 stations is more than just a number—it's a milestone for Atlante. This is an achievement shared by all Atlanters together: more than three years of hard work, with many setbacks and lessons learnt along the way. This is one more proof of our commitment to power the change towards zero-emission driving in Europe," said Stefano Terranova, CEO of Atlante. "Building state of the art stations with industry leading reliability was and remains key to our mission. And we now add more challenging and exciting tasks, first and foremost putting our technological approach at the service of our customers, followed by turning our stations into assets for the electrical grid. From this milestone, we continue our journey with passion and renewed energy."

To mark the milestone, Atlante inaugurated a new flagship station in Milan, located on Via Gentile (on the corner of Viale Stephenson). The site offers a full range of charging capabilities—up to 300kW ultra-fast charging, and plans for the integration in the future of the EnergyArk, a proprietary storage system by TCC Group Holdings, Atlante's parent company. Encased in Ultra-High Performance Cement (UHPC), the EnergyArk offers exceptional safety and operational performance. Its fire and blast-proof structure, combined with a built-in water-deluge emergency fire suppression system, ensures a level of protection unmatched by conventional solutions – reinforcing Atlante's commitment to innovation, resilience, and environmental responsibility.

The whole site has been decorated with a special design that reminds of the Green Gems, symbol of Atlante's myAtlante Tribe loyalty program, to celebrate this major achievement.

Across Italy, Atlante now operates over 1,400 charging points, including iconic sites at Foody – Milano Food Market, CityLife, and key national airports such as Rome Fiumicino, Milan Linate and Malpensa, and Turin Airport. The company is also preparing to launch eight new ultra-fast stations on Italian highways for ASPI, each featuring solar canopies and energy storage for added grid support.

In France, Atlante is expanding through important partnerships like the ones with Groupe Le Duff, Groupe Duval, and Klépierre, with prominent locations such as Odysseum (Montpellier) and Istres. All the while offering EV drivers also fastcharging stations on Vinci Autoroutes.

Meanwhile, in Portugal, close to 1,000 charging points are already active, integrated into urban centers, retail chains like Pingo Doce, and fully interoperable with the national Mobi.e network via the myAtlante app. Spain follows with iconic stations installed at Aldi supermarkets, premium locations such as Marina Vela in Barcelona, and others featuring energy storage solutions to support the grid.

Looking ahead, Atlante is adding a new country to its network: Switzerland. The first fastcharging stations will be activated in the coming months, marking a strategic move toward a broader European footprint.

Double the Gems, double the summer fun!

To celebrate the milestone of reaching 1,000 EV charging stations across Southern Europe, Atlante has launched a special summer promotion¹ exclusively for members of the myAtlante Tribe – our loyalty program that rewards EV drivers with Green Gems for every kWh charged using the myAtlante app or RFID card. These Green Gems can be converted into vouchers and instantly redeemed for future charging sessions.

From July 16 to August 31, as part of Atlante’s special summer promotion, myAtlante Tribe members will earn double Green Gems for each charging session at any Atlante fastcharging station in Italy, France, and Spain – unlocking twice the rewards and accelerating access to savings. In Portugal members will get a 50% cashback on the energy component of each charging session across the Atlante network. It’s the perfect boost for summer road trips and everyday commutes.

But that's not all: summer brings even more advantages for myAtlante Tribe members. The myAtlante app now includes over 1,700 additional Spark Alliance charging stations from Ionity, Fastned, and Electra. Starting Friday, July 25, Green Gems can also be earned at these fastcharging stations.

With this summer promotion, EV drivers in Italy, France and Spain will receive 10 Green Gems per kWh when charging at Atlante stations and 5 Green Gems per kWh at Spark Alliance stations – all redeemable for future charging sessions across the Atlante network. In Portugal the conversion will be slightly different but with the same results.

To make it even easier, drivers can now request an Atlante RFID card free of charge directly through the myAtlante app during the promotional period. The card will be delivered straight to their home, offering added convenience while continuing to collect Green Gems across all stations displayed in the app – including Spark Alliance partners.

Let's make summer even greener with Atlante Green Gems!
